DETAIL ACTION

Notice to Applicant(s)

1. This application has been examined. Claims 1-35 are pending.
2. The prior art submitted on August 12, 2005 has been considered.
3. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. § 119, which have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-7, 13-19 and 25-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Day (2002/0188386).
6. With respect to claim 1, Day discloses a method for generating a terrain elevation map in proximity to a vehicle which includes the steps of retrieving elevation data based on aircraft position information generated by the navigation component and generating a terrain referenced navigation data output (see at least figure 7 and paragraphs 0022 to 0043). Day does not explicitly disclose that the data output is a Cartesian coordinate format. However, Ray does disclose that the output is the produced terrain referenced position, velocity and time data output (see paragraph 0043), it would have been obvious that such output should be in the Cartesian coordinate which can be used in the aircraft application.

7. With respect to claim 2, Day further discloses a memory for storing the generated output (see at least figure 5, item 502).

8. With respect to claims 3-5, Day also discloses the steps of displaying the generated output (see at least figure 3, item 305 to 307).

9. With respect to claims 6 and 7, Day further discloses that the generated output is sent to the radar system (see at least figure 7, items 308 and 309).

10. With respect to claims 12-19 and 25-30, the limitations of these claims have been noted in the rejections above. They are therefore considered rejected as set forth above.

11. Claims 8-12, 20-24 and 31-35 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

12. After carefully reviewing the application in light of the prior art of record and the search of all the possible areas relevant to the present application, a set of related prior art references has been found, but those prior art references are not deemed strong to make these claims unpatentable. although the prior art disclose several claimed limitations, none of the references teaches the step of generating the terrain elevation map comprising initializing the terrain elevation map, updating the initializing terrain map, and updating a rotation angle of the terrain elevation map, wherein the initializing the terrain elevation map comprising the steps recited in claim 9 (see claims 8, 9, 20, 21, 31 and 32).
